

CROSS PREENTATIONS

#Connect

 Create connections by getting to know each other in a fun way  8 - 16  15 min

Benefits

For the facilitator Create a climate of trust. Gather needs and expectations.

For the participant Feel comfortable within a group.

This activity allows participants to engage and interact from the very start of a session. It strengthens team spirit, group cohesion, and simply helps to kick things off in a more relaxed atmosphere. Initially, participants are paired up and introduce themselves to each other based on criteria previously set by the facilitator. Then, in a larger group, each person is responsible for presenting their partner.

Sequence

5 min	Activity presentation	In plenary	The facilitator explains the objective and the flow of the activity.
5 min	Pair introductions	In group	The facilitator asks the participants to pair up, choosing someone they don't know or know very little about. Once the pairs are formed, participants introduce themselves to each other. They take turns to present themselves to their partner during 2 minutes, following the established criteria. The listener asks questions and takes notes in order to later introduce their partner to the group.
5 min	Restitution	In plenary	The facilitator asks each participant to present their partner to the group in 30 seconds. The session ends with the facilitator asking the group to share their experience of these introductions.

Example of criteria:

- Name/First name
- Practice
- Hobbies/Interests
- Expectations for the session
