Benefits

For the facilitator

Bring out new approaches and solutions that can be integrated into projects or professional practices.

For the participant

Adopt new perspectives and gain a deeper understanding of the topics discussed.

This collaborative group discussion activity takes place in a friendly environment reminiscent of a café. During the activity, a chosen theme is discussed. Participants are then divided into small groups around tables to discuss open-ended questions related to the theme. Each table has its own question and a host who guides the discussions. The small groups converse for a set period before moving to a different table to address another question. The hosts welcome new participants and share key points with them. Several rotations take place. At the end, a plenary session allows for the synthesis of ideas and the identification of common patterns. This activity fosters the sharing of ideas and the co-creation of solutions.

Sequence

5 min	Activity presentation	In plenary	The facilitator explains the objective and the structure of the activity. They present the theme to be explored to the entire group.
10 min	Setup	In plenary	The facilitator and participants determine 3 questions stemming from the theme, which will be explored in the following stages of the activity. The facilitator also designates participants who will act as hosts, assigning 1 or 2 per question depending on the number of participants.
1 h	Brainstorming	In groups	Round 1 - The hosts position themselves at tables so that there is only one host per table, with each table addressing a single question. The other participants join tables and discuss the first question for 20 minutes, guided by the host. Round 2 - Participants then switch tables to discuss a second question for the next 20 minutes, except for the hosts who share what was discussed previously with the new arrivals before letting them contribute to the different points. Round 3 - A final rotation takes place so that participants can address the last question for the remaining 20 minutes.
15 min	Restitution	In plenary	Each host presents a summary of the discussions that took place around their question. The facilitator and participants then synthesise the ideas and identify common patterns.
